Am I Small Nan Rompac

A girl is called 'small' by the narrator and she, shocked, goes around asking all kinds of fantastical creatures (the illustrations really are fascinating) whether she is small. They all give various answers depending on their own size (e.g. the Moon thinks she's minuscule and the ladybird thinks she's huge).

The original premise of Phillip Winterberg's Bin ich klein? (Am I Small?) is simplicity itself, is basically and sweetly straightforwardly that size is always and forever relative and that depending on the body types and proportions of those around us, we are perceived as being at times small and at times large (and thus, we are everything, and therefore just right).

I am not familiar with the DNNClassifier but I am guessing it uses the categorical cross entropy cost function. This involves taking the log of the prediction which diverges as the prediction approaches zero. That is why people usually add a small epsilon value to the prediction to prevent this divergence.

I am 5'4" female who has lost 124 lbs so far, from 285 to 161, and was unsure what my goal weight should be because I have a large frame. Apparently, I only have about 10-20 more to go to be well into the ideal range, which is a relief compared to the charts that don't take frame size into account.

What's Your True Frame Size?

Punch down dough, and knead in garlic. Pinch off small handfuls of dough about the size of a golf ball. Roll into balls, and place on a tray. Cover with a towel, and allow to rise until doubled in size, about 30 minutes. During the second rising, preheat grill to high heat. At grill side, roll one ball of dough out into a thin circle. Lightly ...
