Hard Times Book 1, Chapter 7 Summary & Analysis | LitCharts

About Hard Times. Hard Times, a social protest novel of nineteenth-century England, is aptly titled. Not only does the working class, known as the "Hands," have a "hard time" in this novel; so do the other classes as well. Dickens divided the novel into three separate books, two of which, "Sowing" and "Reaping," exemplify the biblical concept of "whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap" (Galatians 6:7).

About Hard Times - CliffsNotes

Hard Times is an 1854 novel by English author Charles Dickens. Taking place in three parts named after a Biblical verse, "Sowing," "Reaping," and "Garnering," it satirizes English society by picking apart the social and economic ironies of its contemporary life.

SuperSummary

Summary. These chapters present a picture of the struggles, the desperation, and the momentary joys of the working class. Entitled "Stephen Blackpool," "No Way Out," "The Old Woman," and "Rachael," they are chapters of character representation, of Dickens' philosophy, and of symbolism. The tenth chapter injects some of Dickens' philosophy into the character sketch of Stephen Blackpool, a power-loom weaver in the Bounderby mill.
