The process skills that we refer to here include both cognitive and affective processes that students use to acquire, interpret, and apply knowledge. At its outset, The POGIL Project identified seven process skills as those that would be the focus of development in a POGIL classroom. Oral and Written Communication.

POGIL | Additional Resources

Because POGIL is a student-centered instructional approach, in a typical POGIL classroom or laboratory, students work in small teams with the instructor acting as a facilitator. The student teams use specially designed activities that generally follow a learning cycle paradigm. These activities are designed to have three key characteristics:
